CITIZENS' MEETING.

In another column it will be seen that there is a call for a meeting of citizens at Union Hall at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Matters of importance will come up for discussion in which every property-owner and citizen of Sonoma is directly interested. It is desired that every business man and property-owner be present in order that the meeting will be a representative one. Let every one attend.

SAN FRANCISCO'S SENSATION.

The circumstances surrounding the supposed suicide of Henry Benhayon and his written confession exonerating Dr. J. Milton Bowers, the condemned wife murderer, and proclaiming that he poisoned Mrs. Bowers, who was his sister, are of the most startling character. At first it looked as though Benhayon had committed suicide in a fit of remorse, but the investigation before the Coroner's Jury has brought out facts in connection with the case which would make it appear that Benhayon was murdered by employed agents of Dr. Bowers, in the hopes of saving him from the gallows, and already one man has been arrested on suspicion of causing his death. This person is John Dimmig. As to his innocence or guilt time alone will determine. Just now things look pretty black for him, and if he succeeds in establishing the fact that he did not take Benhayon's life it will be a miracle. Sifted down the case against him now stands about as follows: It has been proven that he procured a few days before Benhayon's supposed suicide the identical kind of poison which caused his death. It has been established also that he engaged the room wherein the dead man was found and that he was an acquaintance of Dr. Bowers and occasionally visited him at the jail. Should it transpire that Dimmig was the agent of Dr. Bowers in murdering Benhayon and forging the supposed confession for the purpose of saving Bowers from the hangman's noose it will be one of the most remarkable crimes of modern times.

The Behmer bribery case was terminated in Santa Rosa, Tuesday, by the jury bringing in a verdict of not guilty after being out but ten minutes. The case was a farce from its commencement and there never was a possibility of securing a conviction in the case. The bribery charge was the outcome of spite against attorney Geary by the man whom he but a few short months ago so ably and successfully defended against a charge of murder.

The postal authorities at Washington have instructed Postmasters that hereafter nothing will be permitted on the wrappers of packages of second, third and fourth-class mail matter except the name and address of the person to whom it is sent, and the name and address of the sender. Should the sender add the nature of his business, a brief schedule of prices, or anything in the nature of advertising, the package will be returned to him.

The jury in the Morrow embezzlement case, on trial last week in San Francisco, came into Court last Saturday and reported that there was no possibility of an agreement. They were thereupon discharged by Judge Sullivan. They stood eleven for conviction and one for acquittal.

A CLEVER short story by George Parsons Lathrop will be found in the November HARPER'S, with the name, "A Man and Two Brothers," representing the social slavery and despotism of some phases of New York life.

U. S. SENATOR Leland Stanford will please accept our thanks for public documents.

ADVERTISING LOCALITIES.

A great deal of discussion has occurred lately regarding the best method of advertising localities, and the following from the San Jose Times explains the matter very clearly. It says: "It will be found that the great boom centers—places which have been favored with an influx of population and capital did not secure that result by pamphleteering. It contributed, no doubt, but it was the wholesale and judicious distribution of local newspapers that did the work. The explanation is simple. Pamphlets are special publications, generally glowing in descriptions, and by persons absolutely ignorant of the locality are not always treated with entire confidence. They assert, but do not indicate the resources and business advantages of the place. On the other hand, the newspaper supplies the evidence which a pamphlet lacks, viz: Living advertisements of actual business, a local paper well printed, filled with choice selections and ample local news carefully prepared, and with wide-awake advertisements, and therefore probably read by every inhabitant, impresses the stranger as no pamphlet, however elaborate, can. The newspaper will in every case be the foundation of this judgment as to the merits of the locality. If he had both pamphlet and newspaper, he will compare to see if the former is supported by the indications of the paper, and it is a good thing for that locality whose pamphleteers successfully pass the ordeal.

It follows that the true way to advertise a place is by pamphlets and the local newspapers. How to make the latter most available is a matter for good judgment under all circumstances. It is a question of the widest distribution, and where one pamphlet goes, a hundred papers may go, with no more expense. The special edition business is in a certain sense open to the same objection as the special pamphlet; and to make the newspaper effective, it should be sent regularly for a time, to enable strangers to watch the progress of business and the development of the local affairs. What central California wants is to send its newspapers abroad—to persons outside the State who are thinking about it and perhaps only waiting the news a newspaper would contain to decide their coming here to live and do business. This plan systematically followed up would do more than the sending out of a limited number of pamphlets, and would cost no more, or not much more, besides being instantly available.

A Narrow Escape.

The Santa Rosa Republican says: "A small boy about 12 years of age, a son of Willard Mead, came near meeting his death Monday morning by climbing upon a flat car of the freight train while in motion. He got his foot fastened in the coupling link and could not release it. Some bystanders signaled the train to stop, and it was brought to a standstill, otherwise the boy's foot would have been crushed, and he would have fallen beneath the wheels of the moving car. The fact that his foot was small was also in his favor, as the cars did not approach near enough together to crush it. He was extricated with some difficulty and was uninjured.

Rose Outtings.

Many people—ladies especially—are anxious to propagate cuttings from choice rose bushes, and frequently try, but with little success. To such we would say that now is the best time for rooting cuttings. Take sound matured wood before the bushes begin to make their full growth, plant in a moist sandy situation and then keep the cuttings well watered, and they will soon throw out leaves, and will make strong healthy plants by the close of the season. In the Spring they will be ready for transplanting. The ground is now warm, and when moistened, cuttings will root more readily than in the Spring.—Fresno Examiner.

How to Meet Friends.

If you want to meet your friends, you should go to the Panorama on the corner of Eddy and Mason streets. Everybody is rushing there at present to see the latest production of the greatest artists in the world—the grand, fearfully beautiful panorama of the land and naval battles of Vicksburg. The crowds are wonderful. One can gain an idea of the patronage when it is stated that the first month of its exhibition, ending August 20, 28,737 people had passed through the building to see it. Many ladies who have no gentleman to escort them go in the day time, taking their seats with them. The intelligent ladies, always on hand, explain in a clear and comprehensive manner the entire scene. Open from 9 a. m. till 11 o'clock at night.—San Francisco Correspondent.

Cruelty to Animals.

The most of Saturday and all day Sunday, a team of horses was left hitched to an old junk wagon back of Hopkins' lumber yard. The horses looked as if they had just been through the war and their ribs protruded, after the style of the sides of a washboard. All the feed they received during the two days, was what had probably been picked up from the leavings of the ranch teams, which are frequently fed in that neighborhood. About eight o'clock Sunday evening the facts were reported to Marshal Blume and officer Vinal, who promptly took charge of the horses and had them cared for in one of our livery stables. The owner of the team has not showed up at the present writing to claim his property. Whoever he is, he deserves to be prosecuted to the full extent of law. Where is the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals?—Petaluma Imprint.

The Late Governor's Love Affair.
Governor Bartlett had a love affair early in life, and not being able to marry the one of his affections, he has always remained true to his early love, as she remained true to him. At the time Washington Bartlett was a young journalist in Tallahassee, Florida. The object of his affections was Miss Annette Buckel, so the romantic history goes, his cousin and now a prominent doctor in Oakland. She had scruples against being united in matrimony to her first cousin, and the love affair was consequently never consummated. Each drifted his or her way, though never widely separated, he to end his career as Governor of the State of California, and she to build up a lucrative medical practice in Oakland. During his last illness she was his constant, affectionate medical attendant, and she was by his bedside when he died.—Sacramento Bee.

A Little too Enthusiastic
"Teaching to me," said an enthusiastic young school man, "is a holy calling. To sow in the young mind the seeds of future knowledge and watch them as they grow and develop is a pleasure greater than I can tell. I am never weary of my work I think only of—"
"I am very sorry," interrupted the young man to whom she was talking, "that you are so devoted to your profession, Miss Clara. I had hoped that some day I might ask you—in fact I called to-night—but I hardly dare go on in the light of what you—"
"You may go on, Mr. Smith," said the young lady, softly. "I'm a little too enthusiastic at times, perhaps."—N. Y. Sun.

Ladies will find relief from their Costiveness, Swelling in the Head, Colic, Sour Stomach, Headache, Kidney troubles, etc., by taking a dose of Simmons' Liver Regulator after dinner or supper, so as to move the bowels once a day. Mothers will have better health and the babies will grow more robust by using the Regulator. If an infant shows signs of Colic, nothing like a few drops in water for relief. The Genuine has the red Z on front of Wrapper.

Demmig's "little toot," as he called it, has turned out to be a very serious affair for him.

What Am I to Do?

The symptoms of Biliousness are unappetizing but too well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A Bilious man is seldom a breakfast eater. Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquids but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time: if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events. The digestive system is wholly out of order and Diarrhea or Constipation may be a symptom or the two may alternate. There are often Hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and often headache and acidity or flatulence and tenderness in the pit of the stomach. To correct all this if not effect a cure try Cassen's August Flower. It costs but a trifle and thousands attest its efficacy.

An End To Bone Scraping.
Edward Shepherd, of Harrisburg, Ill., says: "Having received much benefit from Electric Bitters, I feel it my duty to let suffering humanity know it. Have had a running sore on my leg for eight years; my doctors told me I would have to have the bone scraped or leg amputated. I used, instead, three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes Bucklin's Arnica Salve, and my leg is now sound and well." Electric Bitters are sold at fifty cents a bottle, and Bucklin's Arnica Salve at 25c per box by Ed. Wegner.

Good Results in Every Case.
D. A. Bradford, wholesale paper dealer of Chattanooga, Tenn., writes that he was seriously afflicted with a severe cold that settled on his lungs; had tried many remedies without benefit. Being induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, did so and was entirely cured by use of a few bottles. Since which time he has used it in his family for all Coughs and Colds with best results. This is the experience of thousands whose lives have been saved by this Wonderful Discovery. Trial bottles free at Wegner's Drug Store.

Parties desiring to invest in vineyard and orchard property would consult their interest by calling at the Real Estate Agency of Raschen & Granice. They are offering some of the finest vineyards, orchards and farms for sale in Sonoma Valley. No boom prices asked.

COUNTY CULLINGS.

A pumpkin weighing two hundred pounds is on exhibition in Santa Rosa.

The new hotel at Los Guillecos has been commenced. It will cost $5,000.

Mrs. A. Benjamin had her collar bone broken in Bennett Valley last Saturday by being thrown out of a wagon by a runaway team.

Ben. Barnes of Sebastopol, while driving a five-horse team over the bridge near Howard's station, one day last week, fell through. The wagon was loaded with lumber. The horses and driver were precipitated twenty feet to the ground. Barnes was seriously hurt.

The Woolen Mills are running daily and there is a greater demand for labor, the services of girls being especially in demand. A shipment of 20,000 pounds of wool was received from San Francisco Saturday, and large shipments of flannel are being made at frequent intervals in return.—Republican.

Professor Carl Hinrichs of Petaluma, was sent from San Francisco to the Napa Insane Asylum, last week. He is suffering from dementia, from an attack of epilepsy of several months ago. He is a music teacher, and the husband of Mrs. Belle Fairbanks-Hinrichs, a Petaluma lady of fine vocal powers.

The Petaluma Argus says: The once flourishing town of Donahue is no more. Her big hotel went down to Tiburon on a barge, and the cottages have followed suit, three at once on Wednesday. The machinery is all transferred and the last of the shops that are worth moving will be gone to-day. Donahue will soon be a grape patch.

Ayer's Pills are an invaluable remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels. This medicine should be kept in every family.

NEW TO-DAY.

The importance of purifying the blood cannot be overestimated, for without pure blood you cannot enjoy good health. At this season nearly every one needs a good medicine to purify, vitalize, and enrich the blood, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is worthy your confidence. It is peculiar in that it strengthens and builds up the system, creates an appetite, and tones the digestion, while it eradicates disease. Give it a trial. Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

NELLIE GRANT'S HOME.

PRETTY PLACE WITH OLD WORLD SURROUNDINGS.

On the morning of a visit to America—Mrs. Grant's children—A Talk with Her Son—Her Thirteen Year's Residence in England.

Handy a common shot from the dull English snapper. Southampton Mrs. Algonson Sartoris (Nellie Grant) lives. On the opposite side of the river from the struggling outlines of this old town she has a charming summer home. It is a delightful place, not only for its mistress and master, but for its complexion and associations.

One afternoon recently, as the Dutch steamer from Bremen drew into the waters of the Hamble, which wash the acres of this striking abode, Mrs. Sartoris put in a rowboat to board it. She was accompanied by the elder Sartoris, who bade her an affectionate farewell as she reached the deck of the ship. Here was an embarkation at one's own door, and it was the beginning of Nellie Grant's first trip to America in two years.

Vivian, her eldest daughter and second child, sails with her. She is a beautiful girl, the image of her mother as she can be recalled when she first entered the White House when her father became president. Algonson, her eldest son, is now a boy of 10 years old; the little girl who goes with her to America is 8, and Rose, the youngest, is 6. An interesting little group the mother and children make. But social life, as the world knows and feels it in this locality, does not interrupt the even tenor of the Sartoris home. There are Ryde Esplanade and Southsea, two famous summer places along the beach like our Par Rockaway, and all within easy sight or call of the quiet place towards which I hope to direct the reader's attention. Nellie Grant is the mistress of this home now, for the elder Mrs. Sartoris is dead. The master is the father of the singular son who married this splendid American girl, who so worthily bore a great name. The husband, having large interests in Wales, is rarely at home, and the father devotes himself to the care of his son's education and his wife's happiness. The elder Sartoris is a man of culture and refinement, devoted to music, painting and literature. He has means, and not only surrounds himself with a home air of art and refinement, but with those who deal in the finer touches of existence. His daughter-in-law lives in an atmosphere of the higher order.

The farm is ample, well laid out and cultivated. The house is an old building, with two centuries of history about it. The proprietor has added some new features to the architecture of the old building, and it is ample now to house the great troop of friends who frequently come here to enjoy the good taste of the proprietor. There are lawns and gardens, lawn and pasture, and many more acres of flowers, shrubbery and shade. Graveled walks lead in and out between the rows of great trees, which run in every direction. The flower beds dot the whole slope from the house to the river. The old fashioned primrose and pink, with other flowers so well remembered to dear old America, garnish every part of the lawn and are so guided that they make up quaint illustrations of how beautifully colors may be combined. Bowers of evergreens are here and there. Overlooking the water there is one where trailing vines have been guided over an archway of wire and the climbing ivy has been covered with a wealth of flowers, which peep out cunningly from the dark green leaves of the climbing plant.

This is Nellie Grant's musing place, and it is a good point from which to study the history and surroundings of the place. From it all the busy life of the water can be observed. A little way off can be seen the three mighty stationary batteries that look like great black sentinels frowning upon every passer-by—most magnificent illustrations of the military power of the United Kingdom. On the land great lines of fortifications trend in every direction, and I have often wondered if, when looking upon these evidences of military glory, this young woman ever recalled the greatness of her father and the mighty control he once exercised over the lives of men and the fate of nations. She can muse upon English life as it was and is, in its broadest phases, from this pretty arched where the wall is.

"All this is beautiful, but it is aimless," said the mistress to me, speaking of these wonderful sights and their romantic and dramatic history. "Sometimes I hardly know whether it is real or a dream, it is so different from anything you know of in America; yet I have grown very fond of this delightful country and these pleasant customs. It is thirteen years since I came to England to live, but time has passed so swiftly that it does not seem long. Naturally I think a great deal about the United States, for all my family are there, and no matter what changes one makes in life, thoughts of our native land will frequently crowd into our recollections. My recollections of my early home in America are very dear to me, but yet the responsibilities of later life bring their reward to me. My girlhood life was delightful, and every one I think I inherited my father's dislike for politics, for, although I went into the White House a girl, I never took any interest in political conditions, and I have followed the same rule since I have been in England.

"I do not recall many of the ladies who were leaders in Washington society when my father was president, for I was too young to know them intimately, and girl associates of my own age were not numerous. How wonderfully things have changed since those days.

"But these are reflections in which I ought not to indulge. I have new responsibilities in this new day. You spoke about the condition of women in England. It is somewhat different here than in America; but you must remember the ladies assume more self reliance here than American women know. They are resolute, full of good health, are fond of exercise and take to the sports of the field with the men. They do not expect the attention which American women demand; yet I think English ladies are treated with courtesy as real and substantial as the women of any other country. There may not be quite so much obsequious courtesy shown them, but in these elements of association which really tend to make up one's happiness there is as much attention paid women in England as anywhere in the world. It is an old country and its customs are well established. There are still the titles of ceremony that most people think, and there is a great deal to commend in what American women find strange at first, but which would be quite familiar to Frank A. Burr's Letter in New York World.

WHAT AILS THE NATION?

The Average Length of Life Decreasing—Not Pestilence—Not Famines—All our own Fault.

MODERN COOKING AND MODERN LIVING have brought it on. It comes upon us unawares. The patients have pains about the chest and sides, and sometimes in the back.

They feel dull and sleepy; the mouth has a bad taste, especially in the morning. A sort of sticky slime collects about the teeth. The appetite is poor. There is a feeling like a heavy load on the stomach; sometimes a faint, all-gone sensation at the pit of the stomach which food does not satisfy. The eyes are sunken, the hands and feet become cold and feel clammy. After a while a cough sets in, at first dry, but after a few months it is attended with a greenish colored expectoration. The patient feels tired all the while, and sleep does not seem to afford any rest. After a time he becomes nervous, irritable and gloomy, and has evil forebodings. There is a giddiness, a sort of whirling sensation in the head when rising up suddenly. The bowels become costive; the skin is dry and hot at times; the blood becomes thick and stagnant; the whites of the eyes become tinged with yellow; the kidney secretions become scanty and high colored, depositing a sediment after standing. There is frequently a spitting up of the food, sometimes with a sour taste and sometimes with a sweetish taste; this is frequently attended with palpitation of the heart and Asthmatic symptoms; the vision becomes impaired, with spots before the eyes; there is a feeling of great prostration and weakness. All of these symptoms are in turn present. It is thought that nearly one-half of our population has this disease in some of its varied forms. Shaker Extract of Kew's (Seigel's Syrup) changes the ferments of the Digestive organs so as to convert the food we eat into a form that will give nourishment to the feeble body, and good health is the consequence. The effect of this remedy is simply marvelous. Millions upon millions of bottles have been sold in this country, and the testimonials in favor of its curative powers are overwhelming. Hundreds of so-called diseases under various names are the result of indigestion, and when this one trouble is removed the other diseases vanish, for they are but symptoms of the real malady.

Testimonials from thousands of people speaking highly of its curative properties prove this beyond a doubt. Sold by druggists.
